Workshop On Team Effectiveness for Organizations

INTRODUCTION

Organizations are in a constant search for new ways to engage with employees and motivate teams to perform in and remain competitive in emerging business scenarios. Employees need to be on constant vigil in scrutinizing the environment and proactively finding solutions together. Team work is inevitable part of modern organizations and involves aligning goals, idea generation, working in teams and problem solving in dynamic changing teams. It is focused around developing an interest and understanding of the innate needs of people for whom socialization and working in groups is important. The process includes observation and empathy of the team members.
